CONTENTION OF THE STATE ANCHORED IN THE POTOMAC

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
PETERSBURG, Va., June 27.—A very interesting franchise question was argued before Judge J. M. Mullen in the Hustings Court this morning, when the case of Abram Levy against S. A. Gentry, registrar for Third Ward, was heard. Mr. Levy, who was represented by D. Hamilton Wilcox, of the law firm of Wilcox & Wilcox, stated in his petition that he was refused registration because he could not write his application in English, but that he was prepared to write it in Hebrew, to which the registrar replied that no offer was made to write it in Hebrew, but that the application would have been refused if so written. The plaintiff testified that he told the registrar he could not write, and that nothing was said about writing the application in Hebrew, thus reducing the case to a question of voting qualifications. Mr. Wilcox argued that the State Constitution did not specify the writing of the application in the English language as a requisite to registration; that his client was a law-abiding, respected merchant and property owner, who paid his taxes, and was qualified to vote, and was one of a class whom he did not believe that the law intended to disfranchise.

Commonwealth's Attorney R. H. Mann replied that in his opinion the election laws placed an applicant for registration who could not mark his ballot in the language of the American people in the position of an illiterate, and that the law intended to support his argument.

Judge Mullen reserved decision, but stated that he was inclined to the opinion that an application for registration should be written in English, as no man can be naturalized unless he can speak the English language. The judge said that the franchise is not an inherent right, the privilege of voting being obtained by complying with certain legal requirements. The case has aroused a very general interest, and in the absence of much discussion, the opinion being expressed that it may go to the Court of Appeals.

Nine Butchers Fined.
Nine Petersburg Butchers were fined $5 each in the Mayor's Court this morning for violation of a city ordinance prohibiting the establishment of a slaughter-house within two hundred yards of a residence. The fines were remitted in the cases of John Belcher and Robert Sandford, whose slaughter-houses are on the river side, the city health officer expressing the opinion that the riverside was a proper location for them.

Mortality Record.
The report of the city health officer, Dr. R. A. Martin, for the month ending June 26th, shows a total of 49 deaths, of which 18 were among the whites, 38 among the colored. The mortality rate of 21.7 per thousand per annum for the white population. The mortality rate among the negroes is 32.4; whites, 11.14. The births aggregated 46—whites, 10; colored, 36.

VIOLINIST LOSES LIFE IN FLAMES

Charles Filbert Had but One Leg and Could Not Flee as Fire Approached.

"ONLY OFFICIAL SOUVENIRS"

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NORFOLK, Va., June 27.—The ashes of the Madison Hotel, burned yesterday morning in the great Pine Beach fire, today gave up the bones of Charles Filbert, a violinist, who came here from San Antonio.

Filbert retired to his room about two hours before the fire, and was sleeping soundly when the fire reached the Madison. He had but one leg, too, and that may have been responsible for his failure to escape. Not even all the bones of Filbert were left by the flames. The identity of the victim was established by a nickel band which he wore on his left wrist.

Filbert is victim No. 2 of the fire. The other was Larry Harris, the colored bootblack of the hotel.

The ruins have been now pretty well searched, and it is not supposed that there were more deaths as a result of the fire. Not one other is known to be missing. The tragic story to the effect that three Greeks had been seen to shoot themselves or cut their throats and dash into the flames after discovering that all their possessions were lost was baseless.

A census of the Greek colony at the Beach demonstrated that they were all still alive, and very much there. By sun-up this morning they were in business again, some of them with a few glasses of lemonade and others with metal exposition souvenirs, which had unmistakably been through the fire, were pronounced the "only official poses and work of the Western Federation.

Quoted Rabid Speech.
He denied the existence of an "inner circle," or that there had ever been a conspiracy in the organization to do an illegal act.

The chief importance of Boyce's cross-examination was the production of a speech by him at the convention of the federation at Salt Lake in 1898, in which he said that every union should have a rifle club and every member a rifle, so that the federation could march 25,000 armed men in the ranks of labor.

Mr. Boyce would not agree with the accuracy of the quotation, but saying that the sentiment was correct, declared with spirit that when he spoke the words imputed to him, he had in mind the misconduct of State troops in Colorado, the use of troops elsewhere against the federation and the constitutional right of all citizens to bear arms, which was as much the right of the miner as the aristocrat.

Denied Orchard Story.
William Easterly, one of the most important witnesses in the case, was called to the stand today, and his testimony will be continued tomorrow. He occupied the witness chair long enough, however, to deny directly the statements of Orchard, charging him with criminal conduct in the case. He denied that he had ever discussed the vindicator or any other plot with Orchard, or that he had helped Orchard in experiments for the device that blew up the vindicator mine, and denied that he and Orchard had discussed the vindicator matter, or any subject, with Meyer and Haywood at federation headquarters in Denver.

NEW MEMBERS DINE TO-NIGHT.
Recently Enrolled Members of Y. M. C. A. Invited to Supper This Evening.

A supper will be given to the members brought in by the recent membership campaign in the building of the Central Y. M. C. A. this evening at 7 o'clock. Over a hundred acceptances had been received last night, and a roll turnout of the recently-enrolled members is expected.

A number of the regular workers in the association have also been invited and an opportunity will be given for getting acquainted with each other. The membership committee, will preside and speeches and music will follow the supper.

NO MUSIC AT FUNERAL.
Well-Known Singer Buried Yesterday Without Vocal Organ.

The funeral of Mr. J. William Tribbett, at the Grace-Street Presbyterian Church yesterday morning, was of peculiar solemnity. At the request of Mr. Tribbett, who was one of the best-known tenors in the city, and who for the past few years had sung in numerous funerals, service, the music was entirely omitted yesterday. Mrs. J. W. Tribbett, the officiating clergyman reading the hymns.

The quiet church as the funeral party entered in and out was particularly impressive, not even the big organ being used.

Governor Warfield concluded the celebration by an address upon "Maryland." In the course of his remarks he gave the exposition a grand boost, and scored those who had attempted to belittle and injure the great celebration by false reports.

First Trip on Monorail.

At the conclusion of the official exercises the Mayor, Governor and members of the committee gave a reception to the delegates in the Baltimore Building, after which the Mayor, Governor and committeemen left to be present at the opening of the Monorail Railway on the exposition grounds.

Governor Warfield and a party of sixteen Baltimoreans boarded the wonderful new car and took a trip to the end of the line.

This is the first time that outsiders have ever had the opportunity to ride on this remarkable railroad. The road was tested the day before, but the Governor and party formally opened the exhibit.

Presenting the inventor, is a Baltimorean, and in that city perfected the monorail car, which is now on exhibition for the first time.

In the party there were Governor Warfield, Mayor and Mrs. Mahool and son, Mr. Meekin, commissioner to the exposition for the State of Maryland, and Allen Farquhar.
